

PS4

jmalpert

February 2022

I would be interested in scraping from 247sports.com and rivals.com. These websites carry mass amounts of sports statistics that can be useful in the field of sports economics. I would also be interested in scraping from the Federal Reserve. These sites carry mass amounts of data that can be useful for research. The department of labor would be another site with useful data regarding job market trends and unemployment information.